

Housing in the future

France, March 2015

- houses will be built on the water surface
- glass and round shapes will be dominating

- light and greyish colours
- nature will be protected by saving space in buildings by creating additional rooms in outer areas (so cities will not be expanding into width but into height)

Domestic chores

- people will have more comfortable life
- all domestic chores will be done by robots

- robots will assist people with their everyday activities (cooking, delivering food from shops)
- robots could also take care of children

Furniture

- Appliances will be built in
- Everything could be automatic
- Gadgets will tell you when and how much you should eat

- Living rooms will be bigger with less furniture (could be built in and computer controlled so they appear only when you need to use them)
